

GHD Training

WATER | ENERGY & RESOURCES | ENVIRONMENT | PROPERTY & BUILDINGS | TRANSPORTATION

GHD delivers a wide range of training across a broad spectrum of industries and businesses. We have designed, developed and delivered training across domains including: asset and project management, logistic support, maintenance management, environmental management, OHS, risk management, procurement, tendering and contracting. But it doesn't stop there.

We conduct training consultancy activities to assist you to define and understand training needs as well as design, develop, document and deliver the courses themselves. We'll even help you locate the right course for your needs from the wider marketplace.

Engage us and we'll bring together specific teams with a shared understanding and focus on the aims of the training project. Such emphasis ensures a successful foundation supported by a commitment to achieve targets.

GHD Business School provides quality training services to internal and external clients. We believe that the same quality training and learning pathways that we provide our staff should also be available to our clients and partners. GHD is a Registered Training Organisation (RTO) and actively teams with other education and training providers to provide courses accredited to national standards.

Services

At GHD our consultants can provide the full spectrum of training products. These cover the life cycle of the training requirement from the conduct of a Training Needs Analysis, the identification of the required training, personnel to receive the training, and best methods of training delivery, through to design, development and delivery of training solutions.
