

GHD Stakeholder Engagement

WATER | ENERGY & RESOURCES | ENVIRONMENT | PROPERTY & BUILDINGS | TRANSPORTATION

We're proud of our long history of working hand-in-hand with private, public and non-government clients and communities. We seek engagement and input on many levels – in infrastructure development, environmental planning, urban and open space planning, residential and commercial developments, community and social planning.

GHD's multi-disciplinary teams work to integrate social elements into client projects and decision making processes.

To be sustainable, a decision, project or operation needs to be economically viable, environmentally responsible and socially acceptable. It's all about the triple bottom line.

Our offering aims to help you understand the social impacts of your operations or projects, enhance stakeholder relationships and reputations and contribute to strengthening social networks and capacity. We do this by;

- Defining and contributing the 'human' perspective to decisions, projects, processes and policies
- Facilitating robust, defensible and meaningful stakeholder and community engagement processes
- Assessing and managing stakeholder and community risks, issues and opportunities
